Put Your Year In Gear will be made up of 6 business leaders whose combined experiences expand from marketing and sales, operations and finance.

“This event is meant to inspire and re-energize entrepreneurs who have been otherwise paralyzed by the bad news in our economy. We are in a new age and a few of us have figured out how to successfully navigate the waters to achieve our business goals. Put Your Year In Gear is about motivating business owners, sharing successes and teaching them how to effectively get their business plans organized, to sell their products or services and to find qualified leads online.” says Patrice Barber, President of Taylor Made Small Biz.

This event will also feature a presentation from Col. Mike Wolfert, a Command Pilot and Master Space Operator who is also a successful entrepreneur, who has been a key advisor for over a decade to military space equivalent CEOs, COOs, and directors on future systems, concepts, and personnel/organizational issues. Col. Wolfert will share his personal journey and successes from Active Duty to Entrepreneur and will highlight the pitfalls to avoid and opportunities to seek out in business.

“A few weeks ago I was approached by several retired military folks about helping our veterans. The outcome was an invitation to the group of dedicated individuals to join us at the Put Your Year In Gear event. At the event, our speakers will share all that they know and have learned about creating a lifestyle of freedom with our brothers and sisters who have valiantly protected our freedom,” explained Barber.
